GOOD MEN GO WRONG

A strange thing about efforts to simplify the Florida ballot in the interest of the mass of voters is the opposition of certain state senators and representatives who are above the average in intelligence and not given to demagogic posturing. In this class is Punta Gorda's Rep. Leo Woltzky, an exceedingly able young fellow who went off half-cocked to defeat the bill to take presidential electors off the ballot when it was up in the house. The same can't be said of his partner in that crime, Rep. Archie Clement of Pinellas county, who is spoken of as a power in the house though by no means one of its brightest minds. Given to superficial utterances, and many of them put in an ear against the electors bill though he missed the point entirely—he was credited, with influencing members who can be secured into playing safe when anything new comes up.

In the senate there are proportionately not so many in that class, though there is a quota of shallow mentalities who say away from anything that requires second thought. Among them, few would put Senator John Beacham of West Palm Beach who nevertheless is not above sounding off for the benefit of the galleries or as an anchor to windward for various enterprises he has in his sleeve. That's probably what he was up to in speaking against the removal of electors when the bill passed the other day. Completely ignoring the issue as carefully, he crumpled with the declaration that "I'm absolutely against taking away from the people their right to nominate their candidate, no matter what it's for."

The bill, of course, took away no such right, the electors not being candidates for any public office but merely the symbols of presidential candidates. As his range of knowledge doesn't cover everything, Senator Beacham probably didn't realize that what was put up by a righteous though erroneous impulse to oppose a measure that would strengthen people in their right to vote for the candidates they prefer and not get tangled up into marking their ballots for somebody else.—The News Press.

PERILS OF SUPERSTITION

"A young man wrapped his arms around the pretty girl."

"My darling," he breathed, "you're all the world to me. I don't know what I'd do without you. I love—"

At that moment the doorbell rang. The girl jumped up. "It's my fiancé," she gasped. "You must leave at once. Oh, hurry!"

The young man looked round nervously. "But how am I going to leave?" he asked anxiously. "I can't go out by the door. Your fiancé would see me."

The girl thought quickly. "Jump out of the window," she advised. "The night is dark and moonless."

The girl stamped her foot. "So what?" she rasped. "At this stage are you going to tell me you're superstitious?" — Winter Haven Herald.

JEES FOR THE FARM

Army jeeps, like old-time war horses, may spend their declining years in harness on the farm.

Department of agriculture experts continue to test the tough little military vehicles with an eye to their post-war usefulness in plowing, harrowing, and other field work. Experiments at Experiment Station show a jeep can haul two-ton loads of grain, pull cultivators and harrows over uneven ground, furnish power for milking machines, saws and fence menders.

Farm equipment manufacturers, conceding that jeeps may find some agricultural uses, still don't consider them a serious threat to the peacetime tractor market.—Wall Street Journal.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

by Russell Kay

Don't be surprised if this column reaches you in longhand one of these days. George Burr, Secretary of the State Defense Council is going around with a gleam in his eye looking for typewriters which are sorely needed by the Army and Navy, and he cast a loving and affectionate glance at mine the other day.

I imagine there are folks besides the military who would like to do me out of my typewriter, but they can have it, for the Declaration of Independence, Constitution and Bill of Rights were all written with pen and ink and while it might be a bit tough on the linotype operators, I can have my way in longhand if the time ever comes.

My first reaction to this typewriter drive wasn't very enthusiastic. I just couldn't quite figure how they expected to fight a war with typewriters but when I learned that the machines really were needed at the fighting front for use in bombers, jeeps and on ships for quick and accurate transmission of vital orders and messages, I changed my view.

Another thing that impressed me was that all State and Federal courts, bureaus and commissions are being called upon to surrender from 10 to 25 percent of their machines which ought to be a good thing. Here in Tallahassee Governor Holland led off by contributing two machines from his own office, while practically all departments are turning in every possible typewriter.

Schools and colleges are joining in the effort and Defense Council officials feel confident Florida will soon reach her quota. Cooperation is needed, however, from business and commercial organizations and if you have any machines you can spare, which were manufactured since Jan. 1, 1935, contact your local Defense Council or the American Legion. The government will pay you the selling price for such machines and your contribution may mean the saving of many lives and aid in speeding the war effort. Every machine will go directly to an actual fighting unit and those who turn in machines will be advised where they are being used if they wish such information.

Last week I learned something I never knew before when attending a hearing of the Rungling investigating committee. Testimony of witnesses revealed the fact that the State of Florida owned around a third interest in Rungling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus. While taxpayers from time to time might have felt that they were supporting a number of "white elephants," I doubt if any of them realize they were meagerly paid with a sure nuff circus.

Florida's interest in the form

CINEMATIC CHATTER.....

—By MALCOLM MILLAR—
What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

Glancing through the offerings at the Prince Theatre for this week, I would say that they have come to the fore with another well-balanced week of cinema entertainment, thanks to the booking department.

For the Owl Saturday and the one day visit Sunday they are offering Alfred Hitchcock's "Shadow of a Doubt." This one stars Teresa Wright, Joseph Cotton, MacDonald Carey, Patricia Collins, Henry Travers and Wallace Ford.

Teresa Wright is a brilliant star and Alfred Hitchcock is a master story teller and these two are united with an excellent cast in bringing to the screen a masterpiece of mystery romance that will thrill the onlookers right down to the very marrow in their bones.

Long before we booked the Monday-Tuesday offering, Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" I heard film salesmen, who visited us here, state that this was, beyond any question of a doubt, one of the most brilliant films that has come out of this war. And, remember, they, salesmen were selling film in opposition to this company who produced "In Which We Serve." I decided then I would look this one up thoroughly, then see it on the screen.

You may not know the cast, but here they are: Noel Coward, who has produced some of the finest plays on Broadway these past few years, Bernard Miles, John Mills, Colla Johnson, Kay Walsh, Joyce Carey and hundreds of others all bringing forth brilliant characterizations.

They are bringing back an

"oldie" for the Wednesday-Thursday showing. This one is "Varsity Show" and stars the two Lane Sisters, Rosemary, and Freddie with Dick Powell and Fred Warlock and his band and a host of the best talent from screen, radio and stage. I am sure you'll enjoy every moment of this fast moving show.

Teaming with this show I see another baseball story "The McGuerins From Brooklyn." This one stars William Bendix, Grant Bradley, Arlene Judge and Mix Baer, who are ably supported by a well chosen cast. Even though one may not be a particular lover of baseball I am sure they will enjoy this story of love, comedy and adventure on the baseball diamond.

For the Friday fare I find William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay bringing another of their thoroughly enjoyable stories to the screen, "No Price for a Lady." This one is a mystery when a murdered woman is found in a cellar and a detective gets on the trail only to be dogged, annoyed and exasperated by a young spy—or short of a newspaper hound, it's good!

With this show Eddie Albert and Anne Shirley do "Lady Eddie" guard which is really a show that will hold the interest throughout its screening.

Saturday ushers in Roy Rogers and his comical partner "George Gabby Hayes" in their delightful story of the west "Ship of Santa Fe."

Signing off let me warn you in advance there is going to be a change in the movie setup at the Prince and Everglades Theatre, which will go into effect within a week or two and will be announced in Theatre News in its next issue.

Well, folks sit at you at the movies—Mal.

FINAL MAGAZINE OF THIS SCHOOL YEAR

The final issue of the Canal Point School Magazine for the 1942-43 school term has been delivered to patrons of the school. It is, as usual, filled with interesting items written by the school students.

Outstanding art in the magazine

this month is by Dickie L. Atkins. One particular cartoon shows a picture of Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini. Opposite each picture is the following caption: Slap him down, slap a slap, only a mug. Dicky has been furnishing art for the magazine since its inception and each month his work has shown improvement. In the cartoon referred to it is easy to recognize Hitler with that 'lock of hair over his right eye and his

THOUSANDS OF ARMY VEHICLES

USE SINCLAIR LUBRICANTS

In saving wear and avoiding breakdowns the U. S. Army uses Sinclair lubricants in many "Jeeps," tanks and other vehicles. Your Sinclair Dealer has the same quality lubricants to reduce wear in your car.

To save engine wear he has Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. Opaline stands up better and lasts longer because it is not only de-waxed but also de-jelled. Play safe, have your Sinclair Dealer drain and refill your crankcase with Opaline every 1,000 miles.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL 'AXIS STYLE'?

In Axis dominated countries you would seldom be allowed to travel at all. Or, born from home and family, you would leave at the point of a gun for a concentration camp or industrial slavery.

Contrast that with conditions here. Although American railroads are moving approximately two million troops a month, civilian travel is subject only to voluntary restrictions.

But as military requirements now take more than one-half the railroad sleeping cars and one-third the coach equipment, space for other travel is severely limited. The nation needs your help in avoiding unnecessary trips so that travel essential to our war strength may be accommodated.

If reservations are sometimes hard to get, or your train happens to be late and crowded, this you'll agree is far better than traveling Axis style.

The Florida East Coast Railway is making every effort to reduce such inconveniences. Meanwhile we ask your patience and indulgence until final Victory is achieved.

SITTING IN WITH—

(Continued from Page 1) meeting of welfare workers at a Townsend convention. "No matter what kind of a bill is under discussion, debate never gets very far before some guy jumps up on his hind feet and starts talking about the old people, the blind and the dependent children."

Representative Perry Murray of Polk got so fed up with it last week that he urged his colleagues to quit talking up so much time making campaign speeches and get down to earth with their remarks. "If all the words uttered on behalf of the 'old folks' since the session began could be transformed into dollars, it would be Dr. Townsend $200 a month book life a mere pittance. No one really expects to do anything about the oldsters, but like the weather, they are something to talk about."

"Empire State of the mind" when the cigarette tax was under discussion in the Senate and Senator Clegg urged that everyone over 65 years of age be exempt from the tax. Senator Sturgis nearly sprained an ankle hopping out of his seat to inquire if it was to be necessary for a birth certificate when making purchase of a package of cigarettes.

The Governor's cigarette tax bill traveled thru legislative channels as smoothly and speedily as the Seaboard's "Silver Meteor", to meet the deadline of 11:30 a.m. with little or no real opposition. After a week effort to delay action in the House, it went to a vote and was passed by a large majority. George Inman arose when it was all over and giving a tobacco auctioneer's chant, said: "Sold - to the Governor of Florida!" Even opponents of the bill got a laugh out of that.

A bill to legalize slot machines and put a heavy tax on them is being given consideration by four committees. Another bill to tax punchboards or trade-boards is under consideration. As sources of revenue, either of these bills is promising. Conservative estimates indicate the play on punchboards in this state is well over ten million dollars annually, and a 10 per cent tax should return around a million. A stiff tax on slot machines probably would bring in even more—not that we are in it particularly, but politicians always find it nice to have around. The House Bill designed to regulate labor and put a stop to racketeering, which would have prevented the sale of working permits, outlawed the "closed shop" and required unions to file financial statements with the Secretary of State, found no favor in the Senate which tossed the House measure in the ash-can and wrote its own version—which is much more lenient and even if passed would fall far short of curbing the evils at which such legislation is aimed. It is very doubtful that the House will concur on the new Senate Bill, and indications are that the session will end with no action taken.

The world's first law to safeguard the health of factory workers was passed in Great Britain in 1802.

PLANTING THE SEEDS OF VICTORY

There are big jobs to be done by those of us who are not on the firing line. The home front offers tremendous tasks just as important as posts at the fighting front.

Food is the invaluable weapon in this war. A starving Army and Navy can't fight—neither can hungry civilians supply the guns and tanks and ships and planes so essential to Victory.

In addition to increased acreage which patriotic farmers are cultivating in spite of labor shortages, thousands of patches of ground throughout America are doing their bit in aiding the war effort. Victory gardens are taking some of the weight off the truck farmers, canners, shippers and other essential individuals, thus releasing their efforts for war work. And working in the garden is also making Mr. and Mrs. America stronger and better fit to do other war jobs.

Our community must be cultivated too, or it cannot be a well-regulated and happy place in which to live while doing our part to win the war. Patronizing local institutions, paying taxes, buying all War Bonds possible, making our homes lovely and livable, and ourselves each day more cheerful and neighborly, are seeds of Victory each one of us can plant to grow a community that will be loaded down with a harvest of prosperity and good fellowship!

Don't be surprised if this column reaches you in longhand one of these days. George Burr, Secretary of the State Defense Council is going around with a gleam in his eye looking for typewriters which are sorely needed by the Army and Navy, and he cast a loving and affectionate glance at mine the other day.

I imagine there are folks besides the military who would like to do me out of my typewriter, but they can have it, for the Declaration of Independence, Constitution and Bill of Rights were all written with pen and ink and while it might be a bit tough on the linotype operators, I can have my way in longhand if the time ever comes.

My first reaction to this typewriter drive wasn't very enthusiastic. I just couldn't quite figure how they expected to fight a war with typewriters but when I learned that the machines really were needed at the fighting front for use in bombers, jeeps and on ships for quick and accurate transmittal of vital orders and messages, I changed my view.

Another thing that impressed me was that all State and Federal courts, bureaus, and commissions are being called upon to surrender from 10 to 25 percent of their machines which ought to be a good thing. Here in Tallahassee Governor Holland led off by contributing two machines from his own office, while practically all departments are turning in every possible typewriter.

Schools and colleges are joining in the effort and Defense Council officials feel confident Florida will soon reach her quota. Cooperation is needed, however, from business and commercial organizations and if you have any machines you can spare, which were manufactured since Jan. 1, 1935, contact your local Defense Council or the American Legion. The government will pay you the selling price for such machines and your contribution may mean the saving of many lives and aid in speeding the war effort. Every machine will go directly to an actual fighting unit and those who turn in machines will be advised where they are being used if they wish such information.

Last week I learned something I never knew before when attending a hearing of the Rungling investigating committee. Testimony of witnesses revealed the fact that the State of Florida owned around a third interest in Rungling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus. While taxpayers from time to time might have felt that they were supporting a number of "white elephants," I doubt if any of them realize they were meagerly paid with a sure nuff circus.

CINEMATIC CHATTER.....

—By MALCOLM MILLAR—
What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

Glancing through the offerings at the Prince Theatre for this week, I would say that they have come to the fore with another well-balanced week of cinema entertainment, thanks to the booking department.

For the Owl Saturday and the one day visit Sunday they are offering Alfred Hitchcock's "Shadow of a Doubt." This one stars Teresa Wright, Joseph Cotton, MacDonald Carey, Patricia Collins, Henry Travers and Wallace Ford.

Teresa Wright is a brilliant star and Alfred Hitchcock is a master story teller and these two are united with an excellent cast in bringing to the screen a masterpiece of mystery romance that will thrill the onlookers right down to the very marrow in their bones.

Long before we booked the Monday-Tuesday offering, Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" I heard film salesmen, who visited us here, state that this was, beyond any question of a doubt, one of the most brilliant films that has come out of this war. And, remember, they, salesmen were selling film in opposition to this company who produced "In Which We Serve." I decided then I would look this one up thoroughly, then I saw it on the screen.

Here are my findings: "The greatest picture ever put on celluloid." Quentin Reynolds. "One of the great movies in my time." Alexander Woolcott. "The very greatest picture about this war." Elia Maxwell.

You may not know the cast, but here they are: Noel Coward, who has produced some of the finest plays on Broadway these past few years, Bernard Miles, John Mills, Colla Johnson, Kay Walsh, Joyce Carey and hundreds of others all bringing forth brilliant characterizations.

They are bringing back an

"oldie" for the Wednesday-Thursday showing. This one is "Varsity Show" and stars the two Lane Sisters, Rosemary, and Freddie with Dick Powell and Fred Warlock and his band and a host of the best talent from screen, radio and stage. I am sure you'll enjoy every moment of this fast moving show.

Teaming with this show I see another baseball story "The McGuerins From Brooklyn." This one stars William Bendix, Grant Bradley, Arlene Judge and Mix Baer, who are ably supported by a well chosen cast. Even though one may not be a particular lover of baseball I am sure they will enjoy this story of love, comedy and adventure on the baseball diamond.

For the Friday fare I find William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay bringing another of their thoroughly enjoyable stories to the screen, "No Price for a Lady." This one is a mystery when a murdered woman is found in a cellar and a detective gets on the trail only to be dogged, annoyed and exasperated by a young spy—or short of a newspaper hound, it's good!

With this show Eddie Albert and Anne Shirley do "Lady Eddie" guard which is really a show that will hold the interest throughout its screening.

Saturday ushers in Roy Rogers and his comical partner "George Gabby Hayes" in their delightful story of the west "Ship of Santa Fe."

Signing off let me warn you in advance there is going to be a change in the movie setup at the Prince and Everglades Theatre, which will go into effect within a week or two and will be announced in Theatre News in its next issue.

Well, folks sit at you at the movies—Mal.

FINAL MAGAZINE OF THIS SCHOOL YEAR

The final issue of the Canal Point School Magazine for the 1942-43 school term has been delivered to patrons of the school. It is, as usual, filled with interesting items written by the school students.

Outstanding art in the magazine

this month is by Dicky L. Atkins. One particular cartoon shows a picture of Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini. Opposite each picture is the following caption: Slap him down, slap a slap, only a mug. Dicky has been furnishing art for the magazine since its inception and each month his work has shown improvement. In the cartoon referred to it is easy to recognize Hitler with that 'lock of hair over his right eye and his

USE SINCLAIR LUBRICANTS

In saving wear and avoiding breakdowns the U. S. Army uses Sinclair lubricants in many "Jeeps," tanks and other vehicles. Your Sinclair Dealer has the same quality lubricants to reduce wear in your car.

To save engine wear he has Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. Opaline stands up better and lasts longer because it is not only de-waxed but also de-jelled. Play safe, have your Sinclair Dealer drain and refill your crankcase with Opaline every 1,000 miles.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO TRAVEL 'AXIS STYLE'?

In Axis dominated countries you would seldom be allowed to travel at all. Or, born from home and family, you would leave at the point of a gun for a concentration camp or industrial slavery.

Contrast that with conditions here. Although American railroads are moving approximately two million troops a month, civilian travel is subject only to voluntary restrictions.

But as military requirements now take more than one-half the railroad sleeping cars and one-third the coach equipment, space for other travel is severely limited. The nation needs your help in avoiding unnecessary trips so that travel essential to our war strength may be accommodated.

If reservations are sometimes hard to get, or your train happens to be late and crowded, this you'll agree is far better than traveling Axis style.

The Florida East Coast Railway is making every effort to reduce such inconveniences. Meanwhile we ask your patience and indulgence until final Victory is achieved.
